

In the following diagram, each point on the unit circle is labeled first with its coordinates (exact values), then with the angle in degrees, then with the angle in radians. Points in the lower hemisphere have both positive and negative angles marked.

