The Wiki of the Keshe Foundation (www.kfwiki.org) is online! KFWiki is a free Plasma Cyclopedia, it helps us to work together around the globe on one document, to experience the feeling of working as one soul for one purpose: Bringing the Plasma Knowledge to mankind. Currently, the English version is available, soon there will be separate WIKI's for different other languages. You can request an account and when you are accepted, you can edit every existing page or you can create a new page. After the Review of our experts, your information is public and available for mankind! Thousands of Knowledge Seekers are out there, if you feel that you want to join the KFWiki Team, go on http://www.kfwiki.org and press "Request account," we are looking forward to meeting you. April Updates from Arizona
By Jon Bliven

During the month of April I had the opportunity to join in the Rome conference which I enjoyed. Not only does it allow likeminded followers to share information, but it allows a better understanding of what One Nation feels like. The work of the Universal council was highlighted the first two days. It was the third Universal Council meeting it was clear that the foundation was being prepared for their new roles with much more clarity and purpose. For some time prior to this session the roles of the Universal Council members were not fully understood. Sandy Esch helped guide the group along with Mr. Keshe to a higher level of clarity and the group became more united in their support for one another.

I was fortunate to be one of the presenters along with Sabrina Montanaro, Klaus Prillar, Gatua Wa Mbugwa, and Caroline Keshe. By the end of the Universal Council meeting there was a renewed sense of purpose and unity of mission that the Universal Council family understood as they were challenged to become more active in their communities and to become the voice for the needs and desires for change around them.

The fog from the forest was being lifted and there became a sense of the bigger picture was being shared. Immediately following the Universal Council meeting the attendees could choose if they wished to join with the scientific community within the foundation to share in some of the breakthroughs being worked on. For those who attended they got to see up close and personal not only concepts but working models in health, and spaceship construction. Scientists from around the foundation were allowed to bring forward new products and progress that has been achieved around the foundation. The work at this conference had a direct impact in bringing forward the cancer program as shown later in the month during the Cancer Blueprint day.

A lot of information was shared in the progress of the spaceship program with initial prototypes openly shared with all participants. The people in the Ghana foundation actively participated on-line as equals in the sharing of knowledge and showed the strength of their understandings and dedication. It was nice to see the scientific community within the foundation step to the forefront as the depth of the knowledge keeps expanding. Soon those who have spent their time not only listening but also experimenting will become the plasma scientists of tomorrow. The conference in its format of open sharing will lead to breakthroughs around the foundation as like the Universal Council the scientists from around the foundation were elevated in their level of understandings and their unity as One Family for the benefit of the collective.

It was nice to be a part of this collective unfoldment. The next gathering will be in Ghana by invitation only to unveil the new Spaceship Center in Agra Ghana. It is from here that the first spaceships will be launched and will also be the center for the teachings of the Mozhan program which will take place in mid May 2017. It is with this program where students will learn in depth how to become the passengers of space. https://youtu.be/Z7fFr88ZuJE
It will unlock the mysteries of Universal communities in ways that only Mr. Keshe can teach. If it is your heart’s desire to become the captain or passenger of tomorrow’s spacecraft this is where you want to be. Do not wait as security clearances and arrangements are required and not all will qualify.

In Arizona we are actively working not only in research and development but to bring many new products forward which will show up on the web-site. For those that are distributors around the foundation the is a reason to be able to start seeing some light in having some products that will help build the foundation for other items that will continue to be brought forth.

It has been a long wait for many of us around the foundation but soon it will become clear that the work and trust in the foundation will lay the foundation for the work and sharing we do into the future. For many they do not see all the workings that are going on around the world in relation to the foundation. From my perspective, the cat is coming out of the bag and she is very beautiful. Don’t lose faith as your heart has always known the truth.

Cancer Blueprint Excitement
By Julian Mark House

We are excited by the latest announcements from the KfSSI that are evolving each day. Word from the Keshe Foundation about the use of GANS for numerous diseases continues to emerge from the studies underway through practical testing.

The announcement by Mehran T. Keshe of a Cancer Blueprint came out as a recorded video report following up on the use of GANS to process cancer in KfSSI funded tests at the University of Japan.

The Keshe Foundation is proud to announce a new cancer solution breakthrough!

Mr Keshe unveiled for the first time to the public, the extraordinary results found by medical doctors and clinical trials using Keshe "GANS" products.

Special information was released on Tuesday April 18th, 2017 during the Keshe Foundation's Cancer Blueprint Day, was started at 9 am Central European Standard Time.

Mr Keshe invited doctors, scientists and professionals of all kinds to watch the presentation, and examine the data presented.

Beekeeping Using Plasma
By Heather Bryant

Heather: go ahead…

Nicholas: I am a beekeeper here in northern New Mexico in the mountains and it’s a healthy place as a whole for bees. We’ve had no disease to speak of until this year there were some mites that came into some of the hives and a number of people lost their hives. It’s one of the big problems in many countries, especially in the US and has taken down bees in whole regions.

Because it was early and I couldn’t go in the hives, I created an environmental mix for the hives that was something like CO2 40%, ZnO 40%, CuO 20% and all the amino acids for each and 3 drops of CH3 or even some colloidal silver into a gallon jug and mix it in a sprayer that is 1 to 10 and I use this as my environmental mix that I spray in the house and the garden. I have 4 ft bee boxes that are hexagonal shape.
I sprayed the boxes with the mix on the top, the sides and bottoms and around the bee yards. We found there is no mite infiltration. We did have 4 very weak hives so I made little bottles of 250 ml, a half pint. I corked them with this (plasma) water in it and I put that in each end of the boxes to give extra potency and strength. In one bottle I added more CH3 so I had the differential of the CuO in one bottle and I put the CH3 towards the entry and the CuO at the back end. I don’t have any protocols for this.

I figured the application of the bottles is like the patches and it draws the energy towards the entry where they build their broods and honey stashes to the back end. That is what I have done with the hives to increase the production and vitality. I am thinking of tubes. I heard Dr. Rodrigo had some experience with tubes that you would put around the hives. Any thoughts, intuitive input or practical experience?

Lynn: One of the people who got one of our plasma energy stations is in Florida and it was less active time for the bees and he said there wasn’t a lot of pollen. What he did was to take a mason jar, and put some holes in the jar lid so it was like a drip system. He put a combination of sugar/plasma water in the jar and he said the bees are active and they found pollen further out and they are flying further than they had before and they are 'going to town.' He’s a very happy beekeeper. I'll see if I can find the testimonial.

Nicholas: we have created a watering station for the bees that is a big round pan, about 2 feet across with stones in it and I put some of the CO2/ZnO water for them to drink.

DrR: I have 4 beehives and last year I put a CO2 bottle on one side and ZnO on one side; I have several boxes. The beekeeper said we had bad weather in the whole state and most beekeeper had 60 to 70% reduction. I was the only one who had 100% of production of honey was me.
With the CO2 and ZnO it was incredible the amount of honey I had this year. I was concerned using the CuO as we don’t use it on the brain. We have to be careful it doesn’t affect the brain of the bees. I had rings of 80% CO2 and 20% ZnO in every fruit tree that I have. The production amount of the apples and pears look like grapes with so much fruit. There were 30 to 40 pears or apples on every branch so they were bending the branch. It creates the environment around them. So just 80% CO2 and 20% ZnO. Just one tube goes around the tree with 80% CO2 and 20% ZnO and I put one ring around the bottom of the tree.

Nicholas: I didn’t spray anything inside the hive which is a ‘no-no’ for me. And I made sure none of the spray got on the bees; it was just in the environment. So would you not use the CuO in the environment?

DrR: I would not use the CuO. Why? Just create the environment around the bees that protects them from the mites and infections and it’s the same way around the plants to protect them. You don’t have any invaders when you spray this CO2 and ZnO and put these rings around the plants. I don’t use CuO in the environment.

Heather: the CuO has resonance with things with red muscle; the head doesn’t have red muscle so we don’t use it on the head. So you don’t use it with fish or plants. They don’t have the red muscles and there is nothing they can do with the CuO.

DrR: that is correct.

Nicholas: thank you. So the CuO has very specific uses and application. I am still trying to get clarity on that. So maybe the way I have added it is not appropriate.

Updates from Indiantown, Florida
Putting station water in sugar water that the bees drink and before you used Miracle II Neutralizer. Now he has added the plasma water to it and charged the water overnight. In the morning after the water has charged he puts a tablespoon of Miracle II neutralizer (that is electrified and 1 to 2 TBS neutralizes acid reflux).

You can see the neutralizer and plasma water in a cloud of streamers. It’s ‘winter’ for Florida bees so even though it’s 80 degrees. A recent frost killed off all the pollen so they are feeding the ‘sugar’ water. Some people use corn syrup. Now the bees are in ‘full gear’ with the plasma water, sugar and miracle II. The sugar water is put in a 64 ounce mason jar with a lid with holes. They put it upside down and he has a 3 inch hole in the top of the hive. They go to the water dripping and ‘suck’ it out. It lasts 3 ½ to 4 days. He thinks the queen will lay more. If the workers are happy the queen is happy. Bob learned about the miracle II neutralizer are losing 10 hives last year. Someone used this on hive beetles which lay their larvae with the bees and kill them. For almost 2 years he has had no mites in the beehives. For the last 6 or 7 months he has no hive beetles who burrow in the corners. So that helps.
Now since they added the plasma water to the water he uses for the bees with the neutralizer in the same amount and he sees even more improvement and the worker bees are all more busy, more active and bringing in pollen left and right. There has been a bloom since the freeze. They may be able to fly further since I've added the plasma water.

The following link explains the plasma energy station. https://youtu.be/A0uYOgInTow

Editors note:

Thank you, Jon.

I am available to volunteer as active editor for the monthly newsletter as an editor. There is much to be shared with everyone for exploration on these issues, which are exemplary examples of the paradigm shift we are excited about.

Our knowledge of the plasma is expanding exponentially as conditions allow. Our energies are adjusting and readjusting as we approach new applications looking for enactment and useful manifestations. These applications will come from any quarter of man's life as we grow in understanding of our novel technologies. Our services to others is in giving, with gifts returning in greater response than before.

It is a pleasure to serve.

Announcement from Keshe Foundation USA.

Keshe Foundation USA is gearing up to provide three services to Keshe students in the USA.

COMMUNICATION NETWORK for Keshe Students in the USA

It’s no longer necessary to work in isolation. KF USA is setting up a nationwide database of Keshe students out of the Keshe Foundation USA in Tempe, AZ, the Keshe center for research and manufacturing in the United States.

If you are interested in finding out who is working with Keshe technology in your area send the following information to usa.webmaster@spaceshipinstitute.org.
Be sure to include the specific word NEWSLETTER in the subject line.

1. Your first and last name.
2. Your CITY and STATE.
3. Email address.
4. If you are interested in taking a leadership role in your Community with the assistance of the Foundation.

We encourage you to add your information to the database so that you can be instantly notified of important announcements or potential disaster relief information.

MONTHLY NEWSLETTER

Keshe Foundation USA will be posting a monthly newsletter on their website: www.keshefoundationusa.org and on their Facebook page “Keshe Manufacturing AZ” https://usa.keshefoundation.org/

We will keep you up to date on the latest news out of the Foundation and what is happening with projects and workshops around the country.

We are looking for:

1. Your projects in the US that you would be willing to showcase in the Newsletter. We would love to know what you are doing! Be sure and include photos and videos.
2. Testimonials for experiences that you have had with the using the technology.

If you have something you would like to submit for the Newsletter, please send an email to skycypher@gmail.com.

NOTE: This email address is for Newsletter submissions only!

KESHE TECHNOLOGY WORKSHOPS

Workshops are a great way to learn and share the technology. Keshe Foundation USA will be conducting workshops as well providing assistance to students around the country who have had hands-on experience with the technology and need some help in planning workshops in their own localities.
