one of the developments in social work in the second half of the 20th century was the marked decline in the recognition of the Christian religion in the teaching and practice of professional social work. The secularization of the social work profession—the notion that religion in both an ideological and institutional sense have little or no part in forming or informing the world of social work—has been extensive.

As a result, many social workers want to know what role Christian faith plays in the social work profession. The purpose of this book is to help respond to this question. Christianity and Social Work is intended for a variety of audiences, including social work practitioners, educators, and students at the undergraduate and graduate levels. The book is organized so that it can be used as training or reference materials for practitioners, or as a textbook or supplemental reading in a social work class. Readings address a breadth of curriculum areas and respond to the revised Educational Policy and Accreditation Standards (EPAS) as outlined by the Council on Social Work Education. Chapters feature topics relevant to social welfare history, human behavior and the social environment, social policy, and practice at the micro, mezzo, and macro levels.

The 4th Edition includes 6 new chapters and responds to requests by readers of previous editions. We have included new chapters on issues of sexual orientation, Evidence Based Practice (EBP) as well as an enhanced section on the role of Christianity in social welfare history.

The 4th Edition is organized around four themes:

Section 1 – Christian Roots of the Social Work Profession
The early history of social work is deeply rooted in our biblical mandate to love, in Christian faith, and in social action to express that faith. Unfortunately, rather than exploring these narratives and celebrating our historical roots, our profession has often glossed over, or in some cases, even rewritten that history into an oversimplified version in which Christians are not portrayed very favorably. We intend Section 1 to provide a supplement and a corrective to the typical social work textbooks that may not speak to the Christian social worker’s desire to understand our historical roots in deeper ways.

Section 2 – Christians Called to Social Work: Scriptural Basis, Worldviews and Ethics
Just as the earliest Christian volunteers sought to live out their faith through social action, today’s Christian social workers listen to hear God’s calling upon their lives. As they listen, Christian social workers seek to understand their own worldviews, as well as the worldviews of others and to practice ethically while living out their calling. Section 2 provides readings to help us explore our callings and worldviews, first by reviewing scriptural bases for social welfare, then by challenging us to think deeply about our worldviews and ethics, and finally by examining the stories of other social work students and alumni who have been called.

Section 3 – Human Behavior and Spiritual Development in a Diverse World
While the issue of spirituality is growing as an area of social work scholarship, we focus this section on an oft-neglected area of inquiry: how the Christian faith of social workers (and their clients) impacts the encounters inherent to social work practice. In Section 3, we review and critique several theoretical perspectives on individual spiritual development, and identify Christian teachings to provide a foundation to form a Christian vision for 21st century social welfare work. We also focus on understanding how best to work with LGBT clients in the 21st century, and offer a variety of spiritual assessment tools social workers can use to help diverse clients in varied social work practice settings.

Section 4 – Christians in Social Work Practice: Contemporary Issues
Christian social workers may view their clients and their work with particular lenses; through these specific worldviews, and there is much diversity among individual Christian social workers. These chapters attempt to reckon with the need for social work practitioners (both secular and Christian alike) to reflect on the difference between merely good intentions and demonstrable competence. We believe that the chapters in this section challenge readers to become more competent and evidence-informed in their approach to practice, as well as clear about how for many of us, being a Christian in social work is about more than just being competent.
Christianity and Social Work Contents

Introduction

Christian Roots of the Social Work Profession
1. Good News for the Poor: Christian Influences on Social Welfare, Mary Anne Poe
4. “Accepting a Trust So Responsible”: Christians Caring for Children at Buckner Orphan’s Home, Dallas, Texas, 1879-1909, T. Laine Scales

Christians Called to Social Work:

Scriptural Basis, Worldviews and Ethics
6. The Relationship Between Beliefs and Values in Social Work Practice: Worldviews Make a Difference, David Sherwood
7. Calling: A Spirituality Model for Social Work Practice, Beryl Hugen
8. Social Work for Social Justice: Strengthening Practice with the Poor Through Catholic Social Teaching, Julia Pryce
9. Journeys toward Integrating Faith and Practice: Students, Practitioners, and Faculty Share their Stories, T. Laine Scales, Helen Harris, Dennis Myers, and Jon Singletary
10. Fairness Is Not Enough: Social Justice as Restoration of Right Relationships, Mary Anne Poe

Human Behavior and Spiritual Development in a Diverse World
12. Spiritual Development. Hope Haslam Straughan
13. Social Welfare in a Diverse Society: Loving the Neighbor You Don’t Know, Jim R. Vanderwoerd
15. Spiritual Assessment: A Review of Complementary Assessment Models, David R. Hodge and Crystal R. Hol trop

Christians in Social Work Practice: Contemporary Issues
17. Ethical Integration of Faith and Social Work Practice: Evangelism, David A. Sherwood
18. Moving Mountains: Conferences as Settings for Social Work Practice, Diana Garland, Gaynor Sancy
20. Evidence-Based Practice: Are Christian Social Workers Values Neutral? Allison Tan, Michael S. Kelly
22. Christians Responding to Gang Involvement, Ronald Carr and Michael S. Kelly

Appendix A: EPAS connections organized by chapter
Appendix B: EPAS connections organized by competency number

ABOUT THE EDITORS

Dr. T. Laine Scales is Professor of Higher Education at Baylor University. She served 15 years as a faculty member in social work in three universities. She has published over 40 articles and chapters in the areas of teaching in social work, faith and social work practice, rural social work, and higher education.

Dr. Michael S. Kelly is Assistant Professor at the Loyola University Chicago School of Social Work. He has written over 30 books, articles, and book chapters on school social work, evidence-based practice, and the intersection of Christianity and social work practice. He currently serves as Associate Editor of Social Work and Christianity.

ABOUT THE CONTRIBUTORS

Tanya Brice is an associate professor at the School of Social Work, Baylor University, Waco, TX.
Ronald Carr is a professional counselor and mental health professional in Washington State.

Rick Chamiec-Case has been Executive Director of the North American Association of Christians in Social Work since 1997, and is an adjunct professor of social work at Nyack College in New York City.

Diana R. Garland is Professor of Social Work and inaugural Dean of the School of Social Work, Baylor University, Waco, TX.

Helen Wilson Harris is a senior lecturer at the the School of Social Work, Baylor University, Waco, TX.

David R. Hodge is a senior non-resident fellow at the University of Pennsylvania’s Program for Research on Religion and Urban Civil Society. He is also an Associate Professor in the School of Social Work at Arizona State University, Phoenix, AZ.

Crystal R. Holtop has 14 years of experience as a clinical supervisor and marriage and family therapist at Catholic Charities. She is enjoying being a stay-at-home mother.

Beryl Hugen is Professor (emeritus) of Social Work at Calvin College in Grand Rapids, MI.

Timothy James Johnson is Emeritus Professor of Social Work at Roberts Wesleyan College and currently serves as Program Director of Johnson Master Consulting, working to bring excellence to human service agencies.

Dennis R. Myers is the Kronzer Professor of Family Studies and Professor of Social Work at Baylor University, Waco, TX.

Elizabeth Patterson is associate professor and field coordinator at Malone University in Canton, OH.

Mary Anne Poe is Professor of Social Work, BSW Director, and Director of the Center for Just and Caring Communities at Union University in Jackson, TN.

Julia Pryce has worked in faith-based services for youth, adolescents, and families impacted by the child welfare system. She is an assistant professor in the School of Social Work, Loyola University, Chicago, IL.

David A. Sherwood has helped develop BSW and MSW programs at Christian colleges and universities, including Baylor University, Roberts Wesleyan College, Gordon College, and Oral Roberts University. Dr. Sherwood is editor-in-chief of the journal Social Work & Christianity.

Jon Singletary currently serves as the Diana R. Garland Endowed Chair of Child and Family Studies and as Associate Dean for Baccalaureate Studies in the School of Social Work, Baylor University, Waco, TX.

Hope Haslam Straughan is Interim Chair and Associate Professor of Social Work, and the Director of the MSW program, at Wheelock College, Boston, MA.

Allison Tan is currently an adjunct instructor of social work at Loyola and Dominican Universities, Chicago, IL.

James R. Vanderwoerd is currently Professor of Social Work at Redeemer University College, Hamilton, ONT, Canada.

Gaynor I. Yancey is Professor of Social Work and Associate Dean for Baccalaureate Studies in the School of Social Work, Baylor University, Waco, TX.

Scan this code to find out about Christianity and Social Work

North American Association of Christians in Social Work
PO Box 121, Botsford, CT 06404-0121
Fax: 203-270-8770
Toll-free phone number: 888-426-4712
www.nacsw.org
Find us on these social networks: