Box Elder School District
Blog Account Request

To request a Box Elder School District blog account, please complete the following information and return to Richard Johnson.

Name: _____ Email address: _____

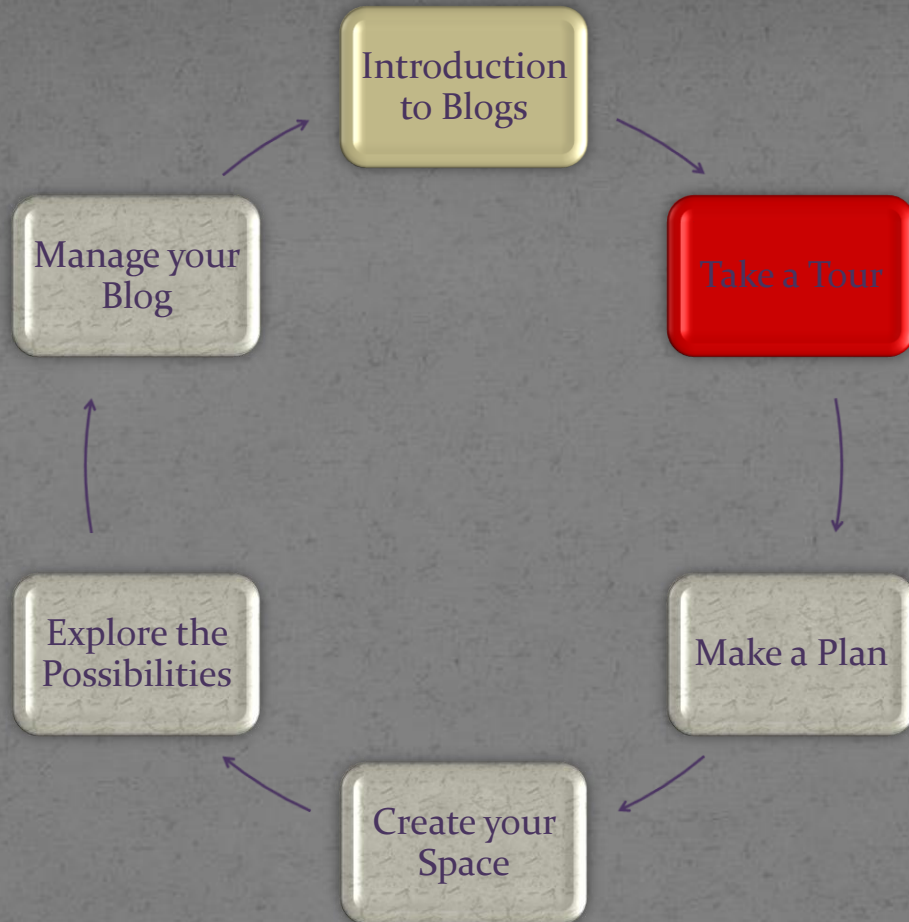

School: _____ Assignment: _____

Purpose of blog:

Once you request a blog, the blog will be made as quickly as possible. You will be required to participate in a short training and familiarize yourself with district policy. You will then be able to go to your new blog and get started! Box Elder School District Blogs are all listed as [http://blogs.besd.net/\(name of your blog\)](http://blogs.besd.net/(name of your blog)).

After you have had the training and have created your blog, please send any requests or questions to Richard Johnson or Lynne Baty. This would include general questions or requests for new themes or changes for an existing theme. Happy blogging!

Available Themes

42k 1.7 by Factory42

A theme with flexibility! All major components are user changeable, be that colors, sizes or layouts. The theme works perfectly out of the box, or you can change things around to suit your needs via the extremely easy to use huge admin control panel with its built in admin area inline previews. The theme comes loaded with 4 widget areas, dedicated Favicon, 4 different front page layouts, user defined error

Ahimsa 3.1.1 by Ravi Sarma

Ahimsa — customisable collapsible sidebars, skinnable colour schemes, custom CSS and footer, low graphics, minimal distractions, with rounded corners in Firefox, Safari, Chrome (some support in IE). New for version 3.1: PLEASE NOTE: You may need to run a custom plugin with this update. Please, please visit <http://ahren.org/code/bit/ahimsa-wp-3dot1> for details on that and other

Appearance: Widgets

The screenshot shows the WordPress 'Appearance: Widgets' interface. On the left is a sidebar menu with options like Dashboard, Posts, Media, Links, Pages, Comments, Appearance, Users, Tools, and Settings. The main area is divided into 'Available Widgets' and 'Inactive Widgets'. The 'Available Widgets' section lists various widget categories like Archives, Meta, Calendar, Pages, RSS, Categories, Recent Comments, Search, Links, and Recent Posts. The 'Inactive Widgets' section shows widgets that have been removed from the sidebar. On the right, a 'Sidebar 1' preview shows the current widget arrangement. Annotations include a callout box stating 'Available widgets are activated by dragging them into the sidebar', another stating 'Widgets are specific to the chosen theme.', and a third stating 'Deactivate widgets by dragging them from the sidebar to the Inactive Widgets section.' A diagram in the top right corner shows a flowchart of the WordPress dashboard navigation.

Plan Your Blog

- First step is to determine the purpose, content and audience of your blog.
- Think about the following:
 - What am I going to do with this?
 - Who is going to read this?
 - What kind of information will I be posting?
 - Why am I doing this?
 - Who am I doing this for?
 - How often am I going to be posting and adding information?

Look at your Blog Planning Template

Plan Your Blog

- Complete the “Planning Your Blog” form.
- Be creative...but keep it simple.
- Use the information to complete the following:

“This blog will be dedicated to _____, _____, and _____.

It will cover the following topics: _____, _____, and _____. The audience will be _____. I will be adding posts every _____ about _____. I am doing this because _____.”

Plan Your Blog

- Example:
- Lynne's Testing Blog:

“This blog will be dedicated to information regarding assessment in Box Elder School District.

It will cover the following topics: ALL U-Pass Assessments, AYP, DIBELS, UTIPS, Testing Schedules, Accommodations and other information and data that pertains to testing and student achievement. The audience will be administrators, teachers and counselors. I will be adding posts as necessary about current testing issues. I am doing this to provide schools timely information in an efficient easy to access format”

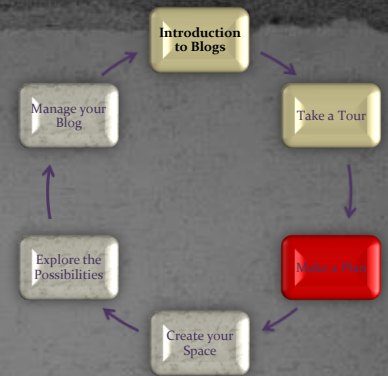

Title and Tagline

- What will be the title of your blog?
- After you have created a title you can create a “tagline”.
- A “tagline” is a short, creative phrase that describes your blog.

Title and Tagline: Example

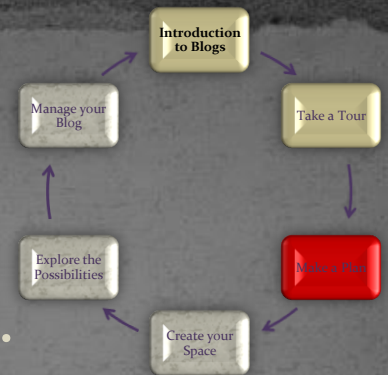

Title: Ramblings, Resources and Ruminations

Tagline: A New Teacher Blog

Sidebar

- Sidebars can be customized by determining the information you want to have accessible.
- Sidebars are created and organized through available widgets. Here are a few common widgets:
 - Calendar
 - Categories
 - Recent Posts
 - Archives
 - Blogroll
 - Search RSS Feed

Pages, Blogroll, Categories

- On your planning template identify other pages, websites, and categories you want to create...

Biographical Statement

- You may want to include a biographical statement about yourself to be included on your home page.
- In could include the following:
 - A brief history of yourself
 - Include any professional/educational information
 - What you want viewers of your site to know about you

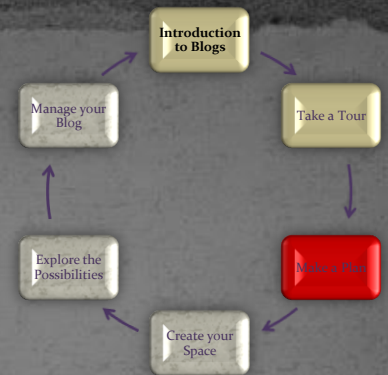

Welcome Message

- It is nice to have a Welcome Message somewhere on your home page.
- It is a brief message that welcomes viewers to your blog and helps with any information that may be necessary to navigate your blog site.

Welcome Message: Example

- Rumination: "Each child is living the only life he has-the only one he will ever have. The least we can do is not diminish it." -Bill Page

Your welcome could change as you desire or be linked to a static page
