Each year, during the third weekend in July, the riverside town of Danville, PA holds a grand celebration of its rich history and heritage. The Danville Heritage Festival provides a chance for both locals and visitors alike to recall the vibrant history of the region while enjoying the flavors and culture of the present community.

Danville’s history includes a documented role in the westward expansion of America through its ties to the growth of the railroad industry. In days gone by, the mountains surrounding this quaint town provided narrow seams of high quality iron ore, anthracite coal and limestone to the community – the ideal combination for quality iron ore, anthracite coal and limestone production. This abundance of natural resources, combined with the multitude of Welsh, Irish and German immigrants in the area who became employed as puddlers and miners, created an iron industry mecca that spurred growth and prosperity in Danville for many years. In the 1850’s, the country could hardly sustain the rapid rise of the expanding railroad industry. By this point, Danville had forged a reputation as an iron-making titan, and the town created and manufactured the very first iron “T” rail in the country. At one point, over 1,000 people were employed in the iron production industry in Danville. Many of the 18th-century mansions in town were financed by the iron and coal industries.

As the early twentieth century dawned, another industry began to rise in town-healthcare. In 1910, a tiny woman with a generous heart, Abigail Geisinger, founded Geisinger Medical Center. Today, Geisinger has grown into one of the most revered hospital systems in the country. The main campus in Danville has well over 500 beds and employs more than 5,000 workers. Geisinger Health System now serves more than 1.5 million patients across 13 regional branch campuses, and employs more than 30,000 healthcare workers in total.

From iron to healthcare, Danville’s rich heritage inspired its people to create the Heritage Festival. The festivities customarily begin with a Friday evening parade and block party in downtown. Saturday is always the busiest day, with many events scheduled from dawn until well after dark. One of the highlights of the weekend is a grand display of fireworks over the Susquehanna River on Saturday evening. The Festival concludes on Sunday morning after a traditional hymn sing and service on the peaceful banks of the Susquehanna.

The Festival encompasses several areas in and around Danville. A spot outside town on State Route 642 West showcases possibly the oldest commercial cider press in the country. The “walk around” that used to power the apple grinder is still intact. In addition to the historic 1865 cider press, visitors can also find the Franklin Furnace on site. This bank blast furnace models the same design as the first successful blast furnace in America, one built in Boston in 1650. During its time in operation, it produced approximately 45 tons of crude iron per week. Informal talks are given throughout the weekend for interested visitors.

In Danville, Hess Field becomes the hub of Saturday activities. Once referred to by locals as “the flats,” Hess Field is a beautiful open space nestled in a gap of the Montour Ridge section of the Allegheny Mountains. Throughout the day, log splitters, pottery makers, weavers and blacksmiths give demonstrations and show off their talents. Additional demonstrations include limestone burning, ‘Sherman Necktie’ making, and various period-specific activities. An antique car show, live entertainment, and local food vendors round out the educational and enjoyable day of festivities.

A multitude of competitions and recreation opportunities are also held at Hess Field and neighboring locations on Saturday. One of the highlights of the games is the quoits contest. This competition is open to the public with “ringers” vying to be declared champion. At the nearby middle school, a tennis tournament is held. A Saturday morning bike ride allows riders to view several abandoned mines and learn a bit about the history of mining in the area at the same time. Avid runners can enter the annual 5K Run, held in honor of the Festival. The race is held on the historic J. Manley Robbins rail trail, which is the oldest known rail trail in the United States.

Stop in for some tasting! Open six days a week.
Anglers regularly land channel catfish, ranging in size up to 36 inches, directly from the shoreline at Test Track Park in Berwick, Bloomsburg Town Park, and many other publicly accessible areas. Wade fishermen can walk a few feet out onto gravel bars and either reel in the smallmouth of a lifetime or land an outstanding table fare-walleye. Cast a line into a shoreline eddy and you might be surprised by the “fish of 10,000 casts,” a muskellunge, which may weigh close to 50 pounds!

For a scenic fishing experience, drive north from Bloomsburg on Route 487, along Fishing Creek. Fishing Creek is exceptionally picturesque, and anglers can also appreciate several historic covered bridges that span its waters. The drive also passes numerous public fishing accesses, such as Kocher Park, and meanders through small towns and valleys. While wading in Fishing Creek, throwing a handtied fly, and taking in the sights and smells of the surrounding forest, anglers will likely forget that they are only a few hours away from the bustling New York City and Philadelphia metro areas. The Fishing Creek area also offers world-class guided trout fishing opportunities for those looking to receive some expert guidance.

While the Susquehanna River and Fishing Creek are well known throughout the fishing community, there are also many other fantastic angling destinations and diverse species within a few minutes’ drive. For a quick lakeside shore-fishing outing, take a walk into the Bloomsburg Town Park and find a variety of species including largemouth bass, crappie, and trout. For a more secluded experience, Weiser State Forest – Roaring Creek Tract near Numidia offers a chain of three wooded reservoirs and a connecting creek. The first reservoir closest to the parking area is easily accessible to all anglers, while the second and third require a mild hike to reach much more unpressured and isolated fishing waters. An abundance of pickerel, yellow perch, and largemouth bass can be found throughout the reservoirs.

If fishing isn’t your sole purpose for outdoor adventure in the area, Ricketts Glen State Park may be the perfect destination to do a bit of everything. Visitors can swim at a designated beach area along the shore of tranquil Lake Jean, rent kayaks and paddleboats, or wet a line for largemouth bass, northern pike, or yellow perch. If planning to stay for several days, you can even rent a cabin along the lake and take some time to hike the stunning Falls Trail loop to see 21 named waterfalls.

The Columbia and Montour County area offers opportunities for any angler, whether casting a baited hook, lure, or a handtied fly. The river, creeks, and lakes are home to trout, pickerel, smallmouth bass, northern pike, largemouth bass, channel and bullhead catfish, bluegill, yellow perch, walleye, carp, panfish, crappie and muskellunge. Visit the region in spring and experience the tremendously popular opening day of trout season, or during summer for great river smallmouth fishing. Take in fall foliage along Fishing Creek and the Susquehanna River, or join in on outstanding winter ice fishing on one of the local lakes. Any day of the year is a great day for fishing in the counties, so grab your gear and hit the water – the fish are waiting!

With four seasons of natural beauty and endless outdoor activities, visitors are invited to explore Columbia and Montour Counties from the water. The two counties are especially rich in outdoor fishing tradition. The region is filled with small, quaint towns nestled along the North Branch of the Susquehanna River and its tributary creeks. These waters have a long history related to fishing, from pre-colonial Native Americans, to commercial shad and eel fisheries, to modern recreational trout and bass fishing. The Susquehanna River is considered one of the world’s top smallmouth bass fishing destinations, and Fishing Creek, which flows approximately 30 miles through the region and into the Susquehanna, draws avid fly anglers from around the world. Enjoy fishing the Susquehanna from a kayak, canoe, small watercraft, or from its shores along the river towns of Berwick, Bloomsburg or Danville.

When fishing the North Branch of the Susquehanna River the typical angler seeks out the famed local smallmouth bass, but there is also an abundance of pickerel, yellow perch, walleye, bullhead catfish, northern pike, sunfish, and carp. Whether you are shore fishing, wading, paddling, or on a powerboat, you are only feet away from many of these species. Anglers regularly land channel catfish, ranging in size up to 36 inches, directly from the shoreline at Test Track Park in Berwick, Bloomsburg Town Park, and many other publicly accessible areas. Wade fishermen can walk a few feet out onto gravel bars and either reel in the smallmouth of a lifetime or land an outstanding table fare-walleye. CRAFTING A WINNING RECIPE WITH RESTAURANT WEEK

By: Chris Hill

In March 2018, when most people were feeling the crisp outdoor air of winter slowly warm to welcome spring, many folks in Columbia and Montour Counties were enjoying the robust indoor aromas of the establishments participating in the counties’ first annual Restaurant Week. Close to 30 businesses participated in this nine day culinary festivity that showcased an eclectic mix of cuisine spanning all corners of the area.

Beginning Friday, March 16th, the kick-off weekend found area businesses like The Inn at Tunley Hill outside of Bloomsburg, Pub II in Danville, and The Brass Pelican Restaurant outside of Benton full of eager diners ready to take advantage of new menu items and special features specifically put in place for the event. Patrons were not disappointed, as they were treated to the best creations area chefs had to offer. When possible, a number of the participating culinary teams sourced ingredients from local farms and growers. Utilizing local resources provided a great opportunity for participating restaurants to support and showcase the entire region, and Restaurant Week truly emerged as a community effort.

The weekend continued in style for those residents saw a suddenly bustling community as self-proclaimed foodies made their way around town to take advantage of an abundance of deals. Steph’s Subs, a favorite of locals and college students alike, was even busier than usual as they offered daily lunch specials for each day of the week. On Main Street, Filet 18 offered diners a "Build Your Own Burger Night" along with a specially crafted dinner menu that featured incredible dishes like Pork Belly Tacos and Poutine. Baker’s Guild Café was a trendy stop for their healthy and vegan options. Guests of the Cherokee Tap Room in Riverside featured incredible dishes like Pork Belly Tacos and Poutine. Baker’s Guild Café was a trendy stop for their healthy and vegan options. Guests of the Cherokee Tap Room in Riverside featured incredible dishes like Pork Belly Tacos and Poutine. Baker’s Guild Café was a trendy stop, and the only drawback was trying to decide which beer paired best with your meal due to the wide selection that they offer!

Just across the Susquehanna River in Danville, the historic and local favorite Pine Barn Inn offered a three course "Chefs’ Menu." Customers included three choices. The Celtic Filet Mignon, a coffee rubbed chargrilled 8 oz. filet napped with a Jameson Whiskey demi-glace, was a sure favorite of the week. Each meal was topped off by a decadent homemade dessert made by the Inn’s own inhouse pastry chef. Traditional restaurants and eateries were the only businesses to enjoy the celebration planned by local restaurateurs and the Columbia Montour Visitors Bureau. Breweries and wineries are also excited to join in. In Berwick, Freas Farm Winery paired up with Amici’s Italian Grill. The winery offered wine tastings and pairings to complement a wide range of appetizing meals prepared at Amici’s. Rock God Brewery, one of the newest area businesses to be a part of the weeklong event, hosted area food trucks at their brewery in Danville along with live music. Not to be outdone, Profile Coffee of Elysburg and Fog & Flame Coffee of Bloomsburg also participated, with discounts on coffee and other purchases.

The second annual Columbia Montour Restaurant Week is already in the works and is slated to be held March 29th – April 7th, 2019. The addition of an extra day this year allows curious diners to revisit known favorites as well as find new eateries they’ve yet to try. This week and a half long event is sure to be a taste-teasing experience for all who want to try new cuisines, listen to local musicians, and enjoy amazing savings at the same time. Come out and make a day, a weekend, or even a week of it – you won’t walk away hungry!

When you visit the grocery store, you likely aren’t thinking about where your food comes from. You are probably thinking about what needs to be done when you get home, or how the day at work unfolded, or what needs to be purchased in order to make dinner possible. The store is a convenient choice, because our lives are busy! However, the produce and goods at the store are often shipped in from all corners of the country, and in some cases, from around the globe. Plus, it takes time for these goods to be shipped through various distributors on their way to your shopping cart. By the time you pick it up to feed your family, knowing it was sustainably raised and untainted with preservatives.

Throughout Columbia and Montour Counties in Central Pennsylvania, there are many healthy, locally-produced shopping options. Briar Creek Farm Market in Bloomsburg is a family-owned business that has been serving the region for 40 years. They are open daily year-round except for the last week in May until the Saturday before Thanksgiving. It is located downtown on Ferry Street between Cole’s Hardware and Voelcker’s Beverage, and is dog friendly. There is ample free parking and regular market entertainment.

Heading south from Bloomsburg toward Elysburg will bring travelers to Rohrbach’s Farm Market. Rohrbach’s offers three seasons of farm activities, including pick-your-own strawberries, peaches, sunflowers, and pumpkins. Summer is full of various workshops and camps for kids that are all interactive and affordable. During the fall, Rohrbach’s offers experiences centered around their corn maze and pumpkin patch. They also offer summer and fall educational opportunities for groups as well. Inside the farm market, guests can enjoy delicious gourmet foods, homemade jams, jellies, and pickles, as well as handcrafted bread and baked goods, eggs, herbs, mushrooms, cheese, baked goods, eggs, herbs, jams, jellies, and pickles, as well as handcrafted value-added products. The market is open from 8 AM until noon every Saturday starting the third week in May until the Saturday before Thanksgiving. It is located downtown on Ferry Street between Cole’s Hardware and Voelcker’s Beverage, and is dog friendly. There is ample free parking and regular market entertainment.

Forks Farm is a working, pasture based farm located ten miles north of Bloomsburg in Forks, in the beautiful Fishing Creek Valley. They raise, process, and sell 100% grass fed beef and lamb, pastured chicken, turkey, eggs and woodlot pork on 90 acres of pasture and forestland. Their farming is based on sustainable principles, so a focus is placed on healthy soils, forages and organic growing methods. Forks Farm is supported by the community at regular Forks Farm Markets. Their farming is based on sustainable principles, so a focus is placed on healthy soils, forages and organic growing methods. Forks Farm is supported by the community at regular Forks Farm Markets. They offer both fresh, homemade baked goods on Thursdays and bread on Fridays. Monthly pre-order sales for beef and chicken can also be placed.

Throughout Columbia and Montour Counties in Central Pennsylvania, there are many healthy, locally-produced shopping options. Briar Creek Farm Market in Bloomsburg is a family-owned business that has been serving the region for 40 years. They are open daily year-round except for Sundays and major holidays. The Farm Market, located at 1007 East Seventh Street, supports local farms and growers, and strives to carry as many local offerings as are available. Being growers themselves, they understand the importance of locally grown food and want to provide the region with the freshest, best tasting produce possible. There is also a regular downtown Farmers Market every Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday during the summer and early fall, where a variety of local farmers come to set up and sell their wares. Several miles north of Bloomsburg, Farmer Moosy’s Produce is regularly open outside Turkey Hill Brewing Company and is a fine choice for any shopping needs.

In the nearby town of Danville, the Ferry Street Growers’ Market promotes local agriculture through the sale of high quality farm-produced goods. You’ll find a bounty of freshly harvested fruit, heirloom vegetables, fruits and greens, all-natural soaps, cut flowers, potted plants and starter plants, pastured, grass-fed and free-range meats, mushrooms, cheese, baked goods, eggs, herbs, jams, jellies, and pickles, as well as handcrafted value-added products. The market is open from 8 AM until noon every Saturday starting the last week in May until the Saturday before Thanksgiving. It is located downtown on Ferry Street between Cole’s Hardware and Voelcker’s Beverage, and is dog friendly. There is ample free parking and regular market entertainment.

Outside Danville, Crest Haven Farm Market focuses on carrying local, in-season produce and plants. They also have a great selection of candy, snacks, spices, bulk foods, and frozen items, along with a full deli. Their slab bacon, scrapple, and steaks are always a big draw. Stop in for fresh, homemade baked goods on Thursdays and bread on Fridays. Monthly pre-order sales for beef and chicken can also be placed.

Montour Preserve
Pennsylvania has the greatest number of covered bridges in the United States with nearly 200 bridges still standing today. Surprisingly, nearby states like New York, Connecticut, New Jersey, and Maryland have only a handful of bridges among them. Ohio has the second most covered bridges in the country with approximately 125. Vermont and Indiana follow with about 100 each. In Pennsylvania, Columbia and Montour counties combined have 25 covered bridges, trailing only Lancaster County (28 covered bridges) for the most in the state.

Each year, travelers from around the world visit Columbia and Montour Counties to photograph and explore these historic treasures. The most iconic are the East and West Paden “Twin Covered Bridges”, which are one of only two pairs of twin bridges in the country. While the Twins are undoubtedly the most renowned, every bridge in the area has a unique story to tell.

Each spring, the Columbia-Montour Visitors Bureau holds a photo contest geared specifically toward the historic covered bridges. “Breakfast for the Bridges” is an event held each year in June at the Masonic Lodge in Orangeville. “Christmas on the Bridges” is held the first Sunday of December on the Twin Bridges and the Josiah Hess Bridge. This event includes hot chocolate and cookies, photo opportunities with Santa, and a visit to the Josiah Hess Bridge.

The “300 Year Flood” on Huntington Creek occurred in 2006. The West Paden Bridge, one half of the Twin Covered Bridges, was destroyed by flood waters. It appeared the Josiah Hess Bridge might succumb to flooding as well, but after the waters receded, it survived – barely. The high waters had badly eroded the abutment and the bridge was on the verge of collapse. CCCBA volunteers and an Amish construction company came to the rescue. The crews secured the bridge and were able to rebuild the abutment. The West Paden Bridge was reconstructed in 2008 and restored to its original state.

In summer 2017, the Stillwater Bridge went through an overhaul of its own. Many support features were replaced, including the side panels. Two windows were added, one on each side of the bridge. A grant from Williams, an energy company, provided the needed funds to paint the bridge. The painting, which is the final touch in the restoration process, will happen after the new wood has seasoned.

The CCCBA hosts two major fundraising events each year. “Breakfast for the Bridges” is held each year in June at the Masonic Lodge in Orangeville. “Christmas on the Bridges” is held the first Sunday of December on the Twin Bridges and the Josiah Hess Bridge. This event includes free hayrides with Santa and Mrs. Claus, a bake sale, and fabulous homemade ham and bean soup. Just a mile down the road on the Josiah Hess Bridge, there are wine and beer tastings from local establishments along with local farm market vendors and crafters. These events are always open to the public, and the CCCBA welcomes all attendees to help support their mission.

The local Visitors Bureau continues to help spread the charm of these wooden treasures with their yearly photo contest, the annual release of a limited edition puzzle, and a very popular fall festival. The Covered Bridge and Arts Festival celebrates the region’s beloved covered bridges in a four-day extravaganza. In 2019, the Festival will celebrate its 38th year. The festival is always held in early October at Knoebels Amusement Resort, and features more than 4,000 crafters and vendors. It is one of the largest craft festivals in the state, so visitors can expect to spend a full day exploring the park and vendors. You won’t go home empty-handed!

In our fast-paced lives, it is easy to forget to stop and smell the roses from time to time. The beautiful covered bridges of Columbia and Montour Counties allow us to do just that. Visitors can appreciate the simpler days by exploring these covered bridges on the quiet back roads of the Central Pennsylvania countryside. Prime photo opportunities exist throughout all four seasons, so bring your camera and reflect on these wooden nostalgic pieces of history.
