					Summer Fees: UC Undergraduate $1,624.00, UC Graduate $2,040.00, Visiting $1,920.00 Note: Astronomy 10 is designed for non-science majors; it has no prerequisite coursework. However, as it does fulfill the physical science requirement, students will be required to perform basic algebraic computations. Simple equations and scientific notation are a part of the course, although not extensively used. More important is learning the way that science works, and some scientific vocabulary. In return you get a full tour of the universe, and learn about the origins and evolution of its contents.&nbsp;

Summer Fees: UC Undergraduate $1,624.00, UC Graduate $2,040.00, Visiting $1,920.00
Note: This course is crosslisted with PUB POL C184 - 001. Course offers an overview of the global energy system, spanning basic principles like energy sources, conversions, thermodynamics of combustion, differences in energy use globally, forecasting, economics, environmental impacts, and policy. Course also offers a "deep dive" into lower-carbon energy technologies, including end-use efficiency, renewable sources (wind, solar, hydro, biomass, etc.), nuclear energy, hydrogen, batteries and electric vehicles, and carbon capture and sequestration.&nbsp;

Summer Fees: UC Undergraduate $1,218.00, UC Graduate $1,530.00, Visiting $1,440.00
Note: "California Water" - Northern California has a relative abundance of water while the most productive agriculture and largest cities are located in the south. For six decades, California has debated how to best move water from North to South while balancing water reliability for users with protecting the environment, economy, and culture of the Sacramento - San Joaquin Delta. This course covers the history of California water development and environmental transformation and focuses on the science, economics, and politics underlying current water debates, especially around the future of the Delta.&nbsp;

Some of the filmmakers purport to be telling the truth about world history, while others base the films only loosely on historical facts or circumstances. Course objectives are to develop a deeper understanding of recent world history by engaging with and analyzing a range of films. Prior knowledge of world history is not required. What is required is to be open-minded yet critical and to view these films as an avenue for finding out more about events, places, and global phenomena.&nbsp;			3	BAILEY, S	07/25-08/12/16

Cross-cultural encounters are events in which people from very different cultural backgrounds have initial contact with each other. In earlier times, these initial contacts sometimes led to violent or disastrous results, but in some cases both parties gained something from their interactions. Colonialism and the long-distance travel of individuals or groups provided many opportunities for exchange and education, as well as collaboration and conflict.&nbsp;			3	BAILEY, S	07/25-08/12/16

This course offers a cross-cultural examination of carnival and music's functions and meanings within diverse carnival traditions, interrogating the "carnival ideology" that carnival and carnival music practices subvert social norms and the status quo. We will focus on the ways in which carnival music articulates racial, ethnic, class and gender relationships in different places. We will cover several case studies from the Americas and Europe to explore music's diverse functions in these carnivals.&nbsp;nbsp;nbsp;	4	SNYDER, A G	05/23-07/01/16

These narratives include compositions of exile, pilgrimage, education, romance, and adventure. The narratives allow one to see the exchange of ideas and material objects across different cultures. Early travel writings may be categorized as part of "wonder" literature, and have come to include aspects of other genres as autobiography and ethnography. Readings include from Khosrow's Safarnama, The Travels of Ibn Battutah, and other pre-modern and modern authors. Also: REDMOUNT, C A

It will explore the ways in which Muslims have interpreted the message of Islam through philosophical, legal, political, mystical and literary writings. Attention will also be given to the controversies that eclipse present-day Islam. The class will emphasize a seminar-style discussion. Lectures will be supplemented with visual materials, music, and movies where appropriate. This course satisfies Philosophy and Values and Historical Studies breadth requirements. We will study interactions between the two traditions and their rhetorical depictions of one another. While the seminar has a strong historical component, we will look at the production of religious otherness within a shared geographical and intellectual space. In addition to learning about a crucial historical topic, students will gain insights into the processes by which otherness is constructed and bring them to bear on present-day discussions of multiculturalism and tolerance.&nbsp;nbsp;
