

Five Things You Need to Know Choosing an Accident Attorney

Choosing the right accident attorney decides the outcome of your case before you ever file any paperwork or see a courtroom. An accident attorney will walk you through the legal process and provide you with answers to your questions. Beyond that, a good accident lawyer should be supportive and compassionate as well as smart and aggressive.

Here are the 5 things to look for in a good accident attorney:

1. EXPERIENCE

The amount of experience an attorney has is directly related to how well they handle your case. For example: An attorney with decades of experience in auto accidents will have handled all types of cases ranging from common car accidents to out of the ordinary slip and falls. They will typically be able to efficiently get desirable results for their clients, when compared to an attorney with less experience.

2. PRACTICE FOCUSED ON ACCIDENT CLIENTS

Finding an attorney that focuses their practice on helping people that have suffered in an accident is important. An accident lawyer typically has a honed ability to accurately predict and value the compensation that you are entitled to after an accident.

of cases handled by accident attorneys settle before trial. An attorney that doesn't focus on accident cases may not understand how to negotiate a fair and reasonable settlement on your behalf.

3. PROXIMITY TO THEIR CLIENTS

Find an accident attorney who is located in your state. Besides making communication and in-person meetings with your attorney more manageable, an attorney who works in your state has worked with court staff, judges, and opposing lawyers. They can leverage the professional relationships they've built on behalf of their clients.

4. EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION

An accident attorney who will effectively communicate with you is very important. An effective communicator will be able to accurately answer your questions, helping to put you at ease during a very stressful time in your life. They will be able to keep you updated on the status of your case and in a small percentage of cases, that go into litigation, they will be able to walk you through the potentially long process.

5. COMPASSION

You want to find an accident attorney who is focused on you, your family, and the best possible outcome for you. You've just been through a terrible ordeal and you will want someone on your side during the potentially lengthy legal process. You want a lawyer who will fight for you and your family, placing higher value on your recovery than anything else.
