Brief overview of the university

McMaster is a full-service university. With well-established strengths in health care, engineering, business, social sciences, science, and humanities research and education. The University offers both students and professors exciting and unique opportunities for research, education, and collaboration.

With a long-standing reputation as Canada's "most innovative" university, McMaster has pioneered a number of programs that have changed how professors teach and students learn. Problem-based-learning (PBL), pioneered at McMaster, has now spread across North America as a preferred method of instructing undergraduate students.

Through its continued dedication to innovative education and ground-breaking research, the University has earned its reputation as one of the leading post-secondary institutions in Canada. McMaster continues in its commitment to be Canada's most student-centred research university.

Academic matters

Restricted/closed Departments      All undergraduate courses at McMaster have an enrolment capacity. The University is committed to making every effort to accommodate exchange students in courses offered at Level II or Level III; however, access to Level IV courses is often reserved for students registered in the final year of specialized programs at McMaster who require such courses to meet their degree requirements. Similar course reservations also apply to some 1st year courses. Courses offered in some programs, for example the Bachelor of Social Work and the Bachelor of Technology, are not available to students on exchange. Courses within the Faculty of Health Sciences and Department of Arts and Science are not open to exchange students. You must consult the Undergraduate Calendar to review the requisites of each course you wish to take.

Can I pre-register for classes before arrival?

Yes

If yes, please give details

Once you have selected courses for which you have appropriate background, you must ensure that they are approved by your home university. You must also contact the appropriate academic advisor of the Faculty at McMaster you were accepted in to request a requisite waiver or a seat authorization. This should be done at least two weeks prior to on-line course registration on Mosaic.

*It's important to distinguish between the academic calendar and the Master Timetable. The academic calendar lists all courses ever offered on McMasters course roster, even those that haven't been offered for years. Students should check previous year timetables to see if the course is likely to be offered in their year of exchange.
