The Right Engine for Growth

The evolution of the insurance and greater financial services industries is already underway. Your customers and agents challenge you with constantly changing service demands and expect instant access to their accounts from their phones, tablets, etc.

The insurance industry is quickly shifting from a product-focused industry to one that is customer-focused, with surveys consistently showing a disconnect between insurers and their consumers. Today's customers expect a simple, personalized experience, like their interactions on Facebook and Amazon. Consumers want an insurer who knows their history and anticipates their future needs, while facilitating easy communication across preferred interaction channels and devices.

This must be achieved while complying with complex regulatory demands and keeping costs low. Our solutions will fulfill today's needs and tomorrow's challenges, while supporting your digital transformation (BI, portal, personalized video, customer engagement platform and cloud offerings). Sapiens offers robust, flexible and functionally-rich software solutions.
