IP Primer for Scientists, Engineers & Startups

NEW YORK IP NETWORK SERIES

September 30, 2015

Overview

Event Details

The IP Network Series is a monthly meeting for intellectual property professionals and those who wish to learn more about IP protection and monetization, including entrepreneurs, scientists, engineers, and investors. Each meeting will include a fireside chat and fun activity aimed at lawyers and non-lawyers alike. Participation is free of charge.

Date: Wednesday, September 30, 2015

Time: 6:30 p.m. - 9:00 p.m.

Event Location

The Loft in Flatiron
20 West 23rd Street
New York, NY

Join us for our next event in the series, "IP Primer for Scientists, Engineers & Startups." The discussion will include a high level overview of the various types of intellectual property protection available in the US, including patents, trademarks, copyright and trade secret. Examiners from the US Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) will provide additional insight on the patenting process, including types of patents, the parts of a patent application, and analyzing claims with respect to novelty and obviousness.

Featured speakers:

- David Hecht, Steptoe
- Arpan Savla, USPTO
- Kristen Matter, USPTO

We also hope you will join us for the final program in this series for 2015:

- November 18, 2015: The Importance of Design Patents
(Date and time subject to change.)

Steptoe will continue the IP Network series in 2016 with a broad range of topics including standard-essential patents and FRAND, basics of trademarks for start-ups, and movie piracy.

For more information on Steptoe's Intellectual Property practice, please contact John Caracappa or Harold Fox.
